Vacanti to move city forward as interim city administrator

Nick Johansen The Red Oak Express

The City of Red Oak's temporary city administrator and city clerk has hit the ground running.

The Red Oak City Council approved a professional service agreement with Al Vacanti of Vacanti Municipal Services on a three month interim basis at its Dec. 5 meeting. Vacanti started in the position on Dec. 6.

Vacanti has served as a city administrator, as well as a city clerk/administrator for roughly 14 years in Nebraska before retiring in 2019 and creating his consulting services. Vacanti said he met Mayor Shawnna Silvius during training in Lincoln a couple of months ago for certification for community development block grant administration, which led to the offer to come to Red Oak.

"We talked a little bit at that time, and then the events took place here, and evidently she knew some people in Nebraska I was not aware of. They must have said something nice about me, because the next thing I knew Councilperson Tim Fridolph reached out to me and asked if I was available. I said yes, and we worked things out, so that's how I'm here," Vacanti said.

Vacanti added that things have been good so far as he settles into the tempo-by some city administrators in other parts of the state that have offered to assist him in the process, and he wants to have things put in good order before his time ends with the city.

"I'm going to be gone in March, and I don't want to leave anything messed up. I want to make sure it's done right, because they have trust in me, and I want to reward that," Vacanti commented.

Now that his first foray into city

The district's high school and junior high band and choir will perform in a Christmas concert at the Stanton Gymnasium at 7 p.m. on Dec. 15, and the community band will perform at the Stanton Old Lumberyard from 5 to 7 p.m. on Dec. 17.

The choir and bands are led by Stanton's new music and band instructor, Leland Lantz, who took over duties at the beginning of the school year. Lantz, who taught and later served as a pastor at Lutheran Church of the Cross in Laguna Woods, Calif., has deep ties to the Stanton community.

"I grew up in a farmhouse just three miles south of Stanton, and my brother, Kirk Lantz, still lives there to this day. I'd been at the same church for over two decades, and I felt it was a good time for me to transition back to the Stanton area. I served at the church until the very last Sunday of June of this year, and we moved back in July," Lantz said.

Lantz felt at this time in his life, he was called more to serve the school, and the kids, and he's always loved music, and he said he was contacted by principal Katie Elwood after Kelsie Schmidt took a position in Red Oak.

I'm kindergarten through senior band and choir. Elwood said there were no applicants out there, and she feared they would have to do some sort of sharing through another school. The numbers of the program were low also, there were only five kids in high school band at the time, so I said I'd give it a try, and I knew it would be a challenge, and here we are," said Lantz.

Since he started, Lantz has gone recruiting and has boosted the high school choir from 11 students to 32 students since the start of school, and while some of them have difficulties reading music, they all have good pitch. Also around that time, Lantz had the idea to start up a community band.

"I suggested it in mid to late September, and we only had around five people initially. We started with pep band songs, but they were really difficult for people who haven't played music in awhile. So we went back to the basics and started with "This is a major program, and the school song and the National Anthem, and they joined us at football games. Part of my goal was to send a message to the kids that music is something they can participate in for their whole lives, and some of them can help the younger kids with learning how to play their instruments. Also, it helps boost the numbers of people we have in the high school band," stated Lantz.

At the high school Christmas concert, Lantz said he hopes to have as many members of the community band as possible attend and join the kids in performing "Jingle Bell Rock" during the concert. The community band will later perform, with any available kids who wish to be present, at the Stanton Old Lumberyard event on Dec. 17.

"They'll be playing secular songs, such as "Frosty the Snowman," and "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer," and we'll probably have time to play through the songs at least twice at the lumberyard event," explained Lantz.

Lantz praised the members of the community band. He said they have been doing very well since many haven't played in a long time, and mistakes are limited to a missed note, or being a bit off rhythm. Lantz said the most important factor is that everyone is having fun, and rary positions.

"I feel welcomed, and the office staff here has been very helpful and patient. They've asked me to do some things that I've been willing to do, and they've allowed me to go through some of the information that former city administrator Brad Wright left. I very much appreciated that, because it's shown me some of the things I need to know early on. It's a different process between Nebraska and Iowa, but ultimately, it's still numbers," Vacanti explained.

Vacanti said he's also been contacted administration in Iowa is underway Vacanti said he may be interested in other work in Iowa, should his goal to serve Red Oak well is realized.

"Then I've got a mayor and some council people and some citizens who have connections in other cities that may know another town up the road that is in need of something or needs some help for a few months or whatever the case may be. Plus, I'll have the experience of going through an Iowa budget once, and while I may not have all the answers, I'll have gone through it," stated Vacanti.

Supervisors agree to upgrade Level B road

Nick Johansen

The Red Oak Express

The Montgomery County Board of Supervisors has chosen to proceed with a resolution for an update on 222nd St. from a Level B to Level A road.

The dirt road is located just north of the county farm. Plans are to upgrade approximately 600 feet of that road for access to the north driveway of the county farm.

Jeremy Clark, the county farm tenant, said he was interested in upgrading the rest of the road all the way to Hickory Avenue, and had petitioned the county to do so. The road reportedly didn't need any grading work other than a quick touch-up, and crews would lay a mix of limestone and red rock on it.

Clark, who was present at the Dec. 6 meeting of the Board of Supervisors, said he was looking forward to working with the county.

"I don't see any downside to it, I'm going to pay for it, and it should be a good deal for the county, the taxpayers, and the school bus uses that road every day, so getting it graveled will be a major improvement," Clark said.

The supervisors unanimously approved the resolution.

The supervisors also finalized a date for a budget workshop. After ruling out December 13, County auditor Jill Ozuna said that having the meeting Dec. 12 would be an acceptable date.

"I should have a lot of information available by the time the Dec. 12 meeting comes along," commented Ozuna.

While the supervisors would not have the recommendations from the County Compensation Board at that time, Ozuna expected the information on valuations to have been received from the County Assessor's Office.

Supervisor Donna Robinson suggested the county's department heads be contacted and given the option to sit in on the workshop and allow them to choose to attend.

In other business, the supervisors:

• Approved an alcohol license renewal for Cubby's, Inc.

• Set a public hearing date of Dec. 20 to approve a budget amendment.

• Moved discussion of appointments to county boards and commissions to a future meeting.

• Approved the sheriff's report of fees for November, 2022, in the amount of $14,178.

• Approved the recorder's report of fees for November, 2022, in the amount of $23,230.

Beware of Publishers Clearing House scam

Southwest Iowa residents have been issued a warning after a man lost hundreds to a scam impersonating Publishers Clearing House sweepstakes.

According to the Better Business Burea, the victim received an email indicating he had won the Publishers Clearing House sweepstakes.

After responding to the email, the man received numerous phone calls and was asked to pay taxes to unlock the prize. As instructed, the man made several payments with MoneyPak cards. When the requests continued, the man called the Better Business Bureau to report the scam.

Publishers Clearing House is one of the largest sweepstakes offered, and there is no cost to participate.

Sweepstakes and lottery scams resulted in higher financial losses during the COVID-19 pandemic compared to the previous three years, particularly for older people, according to new research from Better Business Bureau® (BBB).

in the case of band member Charm Carpenter, has inspired one of the younger kids to try something new.

"She plays bass clarinet, and she calls it 'Bernie," and the cool thing is that she inspired one of our sixth grade girls to switch from trombone to bass clarinet, and she's picked it up very well. For all of the adult members, I think they feel like it's a trip down memory lane, and I'm hoping they'll keep getting better and better so we can do harder music, and play during basketball games and all that kind of stuff," Lantz said.

Lantz himself is also enjoying the experience, saying he loves people, and loves being able to draw them together to perform.

"I want to bring the heart of music out into the community, and I want the community people that played instruments in the past to come back out again, because it's fun. Music is enjoyable, and whatever you put into it, you get back 10 fold," Lantz commented.

Everyone is welcome to play in the band, whether or not they graduated from Stanton. The band meets at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays for rehearsal in the high school music room. Lantz added the public is welcome to attend one or both of the upcoming Christmas events. By using a true team approach, we have been able to leverage the talents and strengths of each person on our team to work together. This has allowed us to grow well beyond what myself, or any one advisor would be able to do on their own."

"The ability to operate as a true firm marks a significant "Milestone" in the growth of any business. Having a team allows us to now function at scale, without Denise or I needing to be involved in every detail. Because of this, we felt that it was time to reflect this "Milestone" by changing the name," added Miller Dan and Denise, along with Kaleb Robuck,

New FFA chapter charter at Essex school

The Iowa FFA Association would like to congratulate Essex Community School on the recent approval of a new FFA Chapter Charter.

Rebekah Sampers, agriculture instructor at Essex Community School, is working with 15 students pursuing coursework in General Agriculture, Animal Systems.

The association is pleased to welcome the Essex FFA Chapter to the Iowa FFA Association and the National FFA Organization.

The Iowa FFA Association is a youth organization of more than 18,500 student members as part of 252 local FFA chapters across Iowa.

The FFA mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education. The Iowa FFA Association was organized by delegates from 23 schools at Iowa State College on May 17, 1929, and is an integral part of public instruction in agriculture. The Iowa Department of Education provides leadership and helps set direction for FFA as a service to local agricultural education programs.

For the 71st year, Stanton held its traditional Swedish Santa Lucia Festival of Lights on Dec. 10 in the Stanton High School gym.

The Santa Lucia story begins in Italy when Christians were being persecuted by the Romans because of their faith. Lucia, a Christian maiden, brought food and medicine to the Christians hiding in the secret underground passages known as the catacombs. She wore candles on her head to light her way in the darkness. Lucia's parents arranged for her to marry a pagan nobleman. She refused and thus was tortured. The story of Lucia's martyrdom and sainthood spread north to Scandinavia by the missionaries. She became the patron saint of all maidens.

The all-community project has been growing each year to give towns people and children of the community an understanding and appreciation of their Swedish heritage. Newcomers of the community with no Swedish background are encouraged to join in on the fun. Newcomers enter into the project, which began early in the morning and lasted throughout the day until after the coronation of the queen in the evening.

The festival included a skit, Swedish dances and songs by the elementary students led by

Supervisors approve zoning change in Villisca

Nick Johansen The Red Oak Express

The Montgomery County Board of Supervisors has agreed to proceed with an ordinance amendment changing a Villisca property from residential to commercial zoning.

At the regular meeting Nov. 15, the supervisors received a petition for rezoning filed by Joshua Kendrick for property at 2663 U Ave., near Villisca, specifically, lots 15 and 16 in south Villisca in the NE-NE of section 28-71-36. The request was to change the zoning designation from residential to commercial.

Plans were to construct an outdoor storage area for boats, RVs, and other types of large equipment, as well as construct a fence with a lockbox entry. However, there were no plans to construct additional buildings on the site for storage.

A public hearing took place at the Board of Supervisors meeting December 6, with Josh Kendrick in attendance. Also present was adjacent property owner Larry Abraham. Abraham said he had multiple questions regarding the project that he was hoping to be addressed. Abraham said the first involved whether or not the existing trees would be left along the north property line to make way for the new fence. Kendrick responded the existing trees would remain.

"We don't have an exact line or a marking for a fence there, but it would be inside of those north line trees," Kendrick said. "We've discussed adding more trees or bushes to the north side trees to make it look nicer and block light and noise."

Abraham also asked whether or not there would be anything to help obscure headlights from shining on his property.

"I'm curious to know if they will be putting any sort of tarp along that fence to block out vehicle lights coming and going in and out of the storage area," commented Abraham.

Kendrick admitted that was not a scenario he had thought of, but he was open to anything that would help make the project more favorable to the adjacent property owners.

"We don't have a specific bid for a fence just yet, and we've contacted companies in the area that we would like to have come out and measure and discuss those options. If that's a concern of anybody around there, then that's something we can definitely look at doing.

We are definitely looking to be good neighbors, and if that's a concern of anybody, I don't think adding that expense to a fence would be that drastic of a change," advised Kendrick.

The waterline to Kendrick's property traveled underneath Abraham's property, and was disconnected upon Kendrick's request. Abraham asked if there was a need to reconnect that water line, but Kendrick reiterated they had no need or desire for water on that property, and the water line could remain capped.

Abraham also requested that any special lighting be turned in a way it was not shining on his property. Kendrick said that would be easy to accommodate.

"Any lights are mainly for security reasons, like any other farm light you'd have next to a barn to give people peace of mind that their property is relatively secured. That's another reason why we want restricted access to the gate to give an extra layer of security," explained Kendrick.

Kendrick said at this point, they were merely going through some of the formal processes and making sure they had proper permission.

"We haven't started any sort of building or secured specific financing or set any dates for fencing to be constructed. The only activity has been clearing out some old trees and buildings that were very run-down. I don't have a specific open date for anything, we just want to make sure everyone is on board," said Kendrick.

Zoning administrator Barry Byers said a public hearing was held Nov. 3 with the planning and zoning commission. During discussion, there were a few items that Byers thought could be included as restrictions on the property as conditions of the rezoning request.

"One of the items noted was use of downcast lighting, to make sure they're not casting light onto neighboring properties, and privacy screening for the fence. It was discussed they would have a security gate with a keypad and limited hours of access, as well as the possibility of security cameras," Byers commented.

According to Byers, the project was approved for recommendation to the Board of Supervisors for approval, and Byers felt the Kendricks were more than willing to meet any demands that the supervisors put on the rezoning ordinance to make sure everyone was happy.

The zoning ordinance would take up to three hearings for approval. Byers said the intent of the Dec. 6 public hearing was to determine what special conditions the supervisors wanted to put on the ordinance, and then revise the ordinance for later discussion and approval.

The supervisors agreed to update the zoning ordinance to include specifics for downcast lighting, screening for the fence, and a security lock box for the gate. Approval of the zoning ordinance will take place at a future meeting of the supervisors.

Spotlight: Animal Health Winter

Dr. Kate Fridolph DVM

with the we've moved into colder weather, it is time to start thinking about how it will affect our animals. Both the large animals and small animals have some things to take into consideration when preparing for winter shelter/protection from weather, food and water sources, and ice/ slipping.

One of the most important

Food and water is another big item to take into consideration for winter.

Our indoor pets aren't really going to be affected, but any outdoor animals can be. First and foremost, a consistent water source is very important.

Tank heaters for large animals and heated water bowls are life savers during the winter, both for the animal and the achieve and the best solution human taking care of them. will depend upon the housing of Even when there is snow on the animal. Breaking large ice the ground, animals can become chunks up, animal-safe ice melt, dehydrated quite easily. Most animals are going to use snow as a last resort for a water supply eating/melting snow uses a lot of energy and body heat. Lack of a water source can not necessarily a lot of changes that need to be made other than making sure that it is still easy to access (not covered in snow or ice) and when it is extremely cold, an increase in forage for the large animals to help them

Ice and slipping hazards are always a problem at some point during the winter. For our pets especially, it is important to protect those pads as it is easy for them to get cuts on pads from ice and melted snow that has re-frozen.

Good footing for any species is a must - with our large animals, this is a lot harder to requirements for any animal is shelter. For many of our cats and dogs, that would be our house! When it comes to outdoor pets - cattle, horses, and other large animals - that shelter can vary a bit more.

With any species, especially during the winter, it is important to have a solid structure that the animal can get into to get away from wind and snow. Cats and dogs need a small, insulated house where they can get in and get warmed up. Cattle typically have a thick enough winter coat, so it's best practice to provide at least a three-sided structure to get in out of the wind and away from the snow (when they want to anyway).

When it comes to horses, having a sufficient shelter is more than enough protection from the cold and snow; typically no extra blanketing is needed unless they have underlying health problems.

Sometimes a bit of additional winter protection is necessary. When salt and other de-icing products are being used due to weather, use a pet-safe formula in instances that you can control.

Although we can't control what is used everywhere, there are some easy precautions to help ensure that your pet does not get a burn from the salt or upset stomach licking the salt from their paws. Winter dog boots are a great option - these can protect from both the cold and the salt.

Other alternatives include avoiding areas that are salted, or if the pet is only exposed to a small amount of salt, washing paws as soon as they come back inside. When we get some of those bitterly cold, snowy days, remember to add some extra protection to feet, such as the winter dog boots or other covering - paws, especially small ones, can get too cold in a hurry.

keep warm can be beneficial. Most small animals with adequate shelter don't need any food changes, but if it is extremely cold for prolonged times, they may need an increase in calories, but this will be different on call emergency services.

and keeping them away from slick areas when possible are all good options.

In conclusion, this winter make sure you are prepared for bad weather. Whether you have result in dehydration and death. large animals, small animals, or As far as food goes, there are both, there are many different things to consider and prepare for.

> Please take a minute and make sure you are ready for the ice and snow before it gets here.

The holidays season can be very stressful, especially to those with a disability. Keep these tips in mind to keep the joy in your holiday season:

- 1. Talk to your loved ones. Include them in planning and decision making.
- 2. Prioritize traditions. Nobody can do it all. Choose your favorite two or three traditions and prioritize them.
- 3. Avoid triggers that can lead to inappropriate behaviors or meltdowns.
- 4. Keep it comfortable. Dressy new clothes can be stiff, scratchy and uncomfortable.
- 5. Schedule, schedule. As much as possible, stick to familiar routines. Don't forget to schedule down time to decompress.
- 6. Plan for transitions. Share the schedule and give advance notice for what comes next.
- 7. Be prepared. Plan ahead and be sure you have what you need for any situation that might arise with your loved one.
- 8. Take care of yourself. Make sure you get enough sleep, eat well, exercise and plan time for yourself.

Happy Holidays from your friends at Nishna Productions, Inc.!!

Council okays health insurance renewals

Nick Johansen The Red Oak Express

The city of Red Oak is gearing up for a hefty price increase for its insurance health benefits.

At the regular meeting of the Red Oak City Council on Dec. 5, the council heard from council persons Jeanice Lester and Tim Fridolph, who advised they had spoken with the city's insurance representative, who advised that the total percentage change in the monthly premium was 16.99 percent, which Lester said was a significant increase due to a lot of claims.

Approval of the new insurance term took place at a special meeting of the council on Dec. 8.
